SPEECH PATHOLOGISTS IN SCHOOLS PROGRAM

How can we help?

Speech Pathologists provide assessment and intervention for children with difficulties across one or more areas of development, including: speech, language, literacy and fluency. The early assessment, identification and management of any difficulties plays a significant role in supporting children's overall development and academic success.

- Receptive Language: understanding and responding to the language of others at home, on the playground and in the classroom.
- Expressive Language: using vocabulary, sentence structure and grammar to express their thoughts, ideas or retell events.
- Speech: the articulation of sounds. By kindergarten age, children should be easily understood by unfamiliar listeners.
- Literacy: identifying and manipulating sounds within words, learning letters and sounds, reading and spelling.
- Fluency: dysfluent speech, or stuttering, may include repetitions of words/phrases or long pauses when speaking.

How do I know if my child needs help?

Each year, the Kindergarten children are screened by our Speech Pathologists to identify those most at risk for a potential speech, language or Specific Learning Disorder such as Dyslexia.

Following the screen, we may ask to meet with parents to discuss next steps and recommendations based on the child's results.

What happens next?

Children identified as having below average skills in one or more areas on the screens can be seen for therapy at school with the Speech Pathologists who coordinate goals with teachers and EAs.
Some more complex cases may be referred on for further assessment and intervention.
